IV ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA:

Chair Abbott called for motion to approve the agenda of the 10/26/2022 meeting. Approval carried 4-0.

V SPECIAL PRESENTATION:

A. Senior Services Division Supervisor, Beth Phipps introduced herself to the Commission. She gave an overview of the Seniors Services programs and services. She recapped and elaborated on the following topics:

- Senior Services Staffing
- Volunteer Highlights and Programs
- Senior Services Program offerings
- Senior Services Program Growth, Financials, and Funding
- Information and Referral
- Congregate Meals
- Meals on Wheels Program
- Transportation Services
- Community Support

Chair Abbott: Thanked, Supervisor Phipps and commented she attended the Seniors In Action (SIA) board meeting that was held for the first time in several months on Tuesday, October 25, 2022, she stated, the facility may not be the most luxurious in San Mateo County but there is so much heart. Meeting highlights included, introduction of newly elected board members, and several committee members spoke. Everyone was excited to be back in-person, they shared about themselves, how welcoming and important the Senior Services Center and programs are to their well-being. It was heartwarming and special to listen to all the remarks about the impact Senior Services has on the senior population of Pacifica.

Commissioner Nicolari: Thanked, Supervisor Phipps and asked, about the financial support from the City?

Supervisor Phipps: Answered, City supports Seniors Services by matching twenty-five to fifty percent, donations received from seniors and San Mateo County.

Director Perez: Stated, the whole Seniors Services program cost the City $150,000-$300,000 and was the only division that did better during COVID due in part by all the meals served at grab-n-go. Projected support from the City for Fiscal Year 2022-2023 is over $400,000.

Commissioner Nicolari: Thanked, Staff for the clarification.

Commissioner Luson: Thanked, Supervisor Phipps for the well-done presentation and all the hard work from her and her staff. He asked, what does the SIA membership entail?

Supervisor Phipps: Answered, SIA annual membership cost $25.00 per year, benefits include parking pass for the front parking at the Community Center, $1.00-2.00 off per class and members receive priority on trip sign-up. Membership is not required to go the Senior center or participate in Senior Services programs and trips. She added some join to be part of the senior community.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Thanked, Supervisor Phipps and stated it was interesting to see the age of participants going to congregate meals has increased and hearting because of the isolation that took place during the pandemic. She was pleased about the California State University, San Francisco nursing students doing Meals on Wheels assessments in person as they are important to those who are extremely isolated to have interactions.

Chair Abbott: Thanked, Supervisor Phipps, on a great job handling the transition of acclimating staff and participants to Senior Services with her transparency and open-door policy.

B. NCE Principle, Landscape Architect, Matthew Gaber introduced himself, thanked the Parks, Beaches, and Recreation Commission, gave a Priority Parks Project update and on design changes made after the community feedback and survey data was collected. Some of the themes from the data collected were, participants wanted different themes, play equipment, surfacing, layout, and type of activities at each park. Many visit all the City parks and it was important for them and/or their children to have different experiences. A strong desire for many amenities such as picnic tables, benches, water fountains and pet waste stations and trails in the larger parks, activities for all ages such as hiking.

Design updates for the Priority Parks are listed below:

- Brighton Mini Park- Pop up event was well attended, and conceptual plan was well received. Budget focused on play equipment, safety surfacing, paths, and basic amenities. Budget did not include new vegetation planting in any of the parks.
 - Design was inspired by the Pacific Ocean
 - Removal of the boat play structure and replace with dolphin springers.
 - Three swings
 - Two separate play towers, one- 2-5 age play tower and one - 5-12 age
 - Drinking fountain
 - Two benches
 - Picnic table
 - Pet waste station

Chair Abbott: Commented, past Commission meetings with NCE the Commission had voiced the importance of landscaping. She understands NCE focus for this project are on the playgrounds. Maybe new Project Manager, Castellanos would continue to emphasize the Commissioners strong desire for new planting of vegetation to City staff as stated in previous Priority Park Project presentations.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Stated, she wanted to echo Chair Abbott sentiment and the Commission has not received a clear answer on planting of trees in the Priority Park presentations. Especially, at the Brighton Park site near the proposed benches and picnic tables areas. Parks in other municipalities are green spaces for everyone. She attended the Housing Workshop on Tuesday, October 25,2022, and commented housing in Pacifica will be greater density and parks as green spaces will be critically important to the community. She believes the Roy Davies fund can be used for landscaping and tree planting. She requested that planting of vegetation be included in each of the Priority Park sites future plans.

Chair Abbott: Asked, any comments on the design revisions?

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Remarked, springers play equipment are very popular with the younger age group and good exchange.

Matthew Gaber: Replied, yes very fun and affordable.

Chair Abbott: Remarked, the overall design changes look fun and NCE took the community comments in consideration when design changes were made.

- Imperial Park – Major focus for the park is visibility by giving it interesting activities and centralized play area of the park. The pop-up event had lowest number of attendees of the four parks. Many comments from survey were about trails, walking and activities for all ages. Maintenance was important to the park for staff to gain access to the path area to maintain the open space, storm drains and other infrastructure.
 - Design inspiration was Monterey Cypress trees and play focus was on all ages
 - Tree climber play structure- ages 5-12
 - Balance beam- all ages
 - Balance posts -ages 5-100
 - Double swing combination
 - Double side play structure
 - Eucalyptus logs climbing structure

- Drink fountain
- Pet waste station
- Picnic table
- benches

Chair Abbott: Asked, if there was signage for the trails included in the scope of work for park visitors?

Matthew Gaber: Answered, good suggestion and he will speak with City Staff about the possibilities.

Chair Abbott: Inquired, only one picnic table in the big space?

Matthew Gaber: Responded, yes and budget and equity comes into play, wanted to ensure that each park had the same about of amenities. There can be adjustments if needed. Some park cost estimates had far greater expenses than others the parks. The parks cost ranges from $150,000-$300,000. They strived for project budget to be equally spread among the four Priority parks.

Chair Abbott: Replied, Imperial Park is tucked away, at least one more picnic table would make sense in such a large area.

Commissioner Nicolari: Commented, he appreciated the use of natural materials in the design. Such as the eucalypts logs and a great fit for the open space at Imperial Park. Asked, what was the surface for the larger play area?

Matthew Gaber: Answered, fibar material and it is the material that are currently in the play areas. It is a sorted wood product that is good in large informal areas.

Commissioner Nicolari: Thanked, for the clarification. He commented that there might be a chance to enhancement of the informal trail to the west of the park.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Asked, to clarify the survey data on first slide of the presentation as it was rather small print.

Matthew Gaber: Responded, he can provide the commissioners with the survey results and all the documentation.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Replied, it looks as if one of the top results for Imperial Park activities was walking. Which she supports signage for the trails and asked if there was a mention of trail signage at the entrance of Imperial Park?

Matthew Gaber: Answered, there could be, but budgets are tight. He will discuss with City staff.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Responded, in terms of equity earlier she spoke about trees around the picnic tables and benches at Brighton Park, she would also like to see them at Imperial Park. She commented, part of her concern is landscaping is usually part of landscape architecture and since it is not part of the current design, could trees easily be added in later?

Matthew Gaber: Answered, one of the challenges with Imperial Park, is the large amount of space and working within the budget confines while keeping equality of the other parks in mind.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Questioned, the use of Fibar ground covering under some of the play structures. Since she has been told that it can be difficult to keep clean and asked if it would be best to keep as lawn?

Matthew Gaber: Answered, the reason for using fibar is because it is a play surfacing and it has fall resistance, while lawn does not offer that protection. Some of the most expensive parts of the project are the safety surfaces and fibar is an affordable surface.

- Marvilla Park- Major focus to bring the park up to ADA standard, at the park's currents state the paths, bench seating, curbs, and entry to do not meet ADA standards. This park is a centralized park and has high usage. At the pop-up events this park had a large turnout.

- Design inspired by Coastal Wildflowers, play focus on spinning for ages 2-12
- Spinner plate ages 5-12
- Two separate play towers with slides, one 2-5 age play tower and one 5-12 age
- Dynamic bar ages 5-12
- Carousel with seating ages 5-12
- Three swings
- Drinking fountain
- Benches
- Two Picnic table
- Pet waste station

Chair Abbott: Thanked, Matthew Gaber for the slides, swings, and spinner design because those items were important aspects from public.

- Skyridge Park- pop-up event was well attended, feedback from the public is that cars would drive through the park. A design was requested to prevent that from happening in the future. He noticed the park was also used by bicyclist riding on grass and social trails created by people because it was safer than riding on Skyline Road. Park used for walking and accessing other trails. Overhead power lines did affect the location of the design in the park. There are opportunities in the budget for this park to add some more swings or other play equipment. Wanted to keep the open space for informal play and the area can be re-seeded.
 - Design was inspired by Pacifica's topography, play focus is swinging
 - Rope pendulum ages 5-12
 - Tower play structure ages 2-5
 - Double swing combinations
 - One Picnic Table
 - Drinking fountain
 - Three Benches
 - Pet waste station

Chair Abbott: Asked, for clarification on the informal walking and bike paths will remain in the design plan?

Matthew Gaber: Answered, yes, they would remain, and pulled the location of the design away from that area due to the Monterey Cypress trees tend to drop limbs. Being hit by a small limb is equal to being hit with hit with a baseball bat.

Chair Abbott: Remarked, the park can benefit with another picnic table and couple benches.

Commissioner Nicolari: Commented, like Imperial Park with informal trails and the opportunity for trail improvement and signage. Overall, solid design for the space

Commissioner Lusson: He thanked Matthew Gaber for his presentation. He spoke to all the Priority Park design; he loved the appearance, layout, and design of the parks. His emphases of feedback were on functionality aspect of parks for children and positive outcomes of the selection and layout of play equipment for children can enhance and have positive impact on motor skill development. He felt that there was an opportunity to adjust in the selection of play equipment that could enhance child development. Imperial Park was a good example of very strong motor skill acquisition opportunity with climbing and balance versus Brighton Park has little to none motor skill accusation opportunities of climbing and balance. He would recommend reviewing some of the equipment selections and to have a variety of equipment that can enhance motor skills such as unstable balance instead of stable balance and climbing equipment, while still staying with the design and budget of the project.

Matthew Gaber: Commented, Imperial Park balance features can be used by all ages.

Commissioner Lusson: Remarked, a good example is Frontierland Park play equipment area.

Matthew Gaber: Replied, the original design for Brighton Park had a rope climber but due to the feedback they removed it and replaced with another play tower structure and will review.

Commissioner Lusson: Answered, some of the play structures can have a climbing wall element as an add on to the structure and small additions would be impactful.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Asked, if a walking and bicycle trail at Skyridge Park connects to Milagra Ridge and the potential of adding signage?

Matthew Gaber: Responded, he assumed that there had been a social trail developed. Social trails are usually not designed to be inclusive and can be a liability, Park Districts usually would discourage usage due to erosion and habitat. An officially maintained trail would encourage signage.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Thanked for information and presentation.

Chair Abbott: Asked, for any final comments or questions? And thanked Matthew Gaber for coming back and presenting the updated park designs and appreciated he took the public comments and made the proper adjustments. They will work on getting landscaping and more seating area at the parks.

Project Manager Castellanos: Commented, City Public Works department are strategically reviewing the planting of new trees in the future. Based on the amount of space that will be available for planting from the approved City tree list. For larger parks, they are reviewing budget and maintenance concerns, and are carefully selecting the size and species of trees. For the smaller parks, appropriately sized and vertical trees that would provide shade for the playground area. The flat work is being done with the Priority Park Project design and the trenching and addition of trees can be added in the future without issues.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Responded, she was encouraged to hear the news on the planting of trees in the future. She had spent a lot of time in parks around San Francisco and there are usually trees over tables and benches to provide shade. She asked if trees and landscaping does not need to be considered during the design phase.

Project Manager Castellanos: Replied, the space for the trees needs to be thought-out.

Commissioner Benton Shoemaker: Thanked, Project Manager Castellanos for the information.

Matthew Gaber: Commented, each park already had water and irrigation which could have been expensive cost.

Chair Abbott: Thanked both Matthew Gaber and Project Manager Castellanos for the information they provided.

Staff Report

PARKS, BEACHES, AND RECREATION COMMISSION
November 30, 2022

Item IX. A)

SUBJECT:

Off-leash Areas for Dogs – history and discussion

BACKGROUND:

Over the last 20+ years, there have been several efforts towards studying and establishing off-leash areas in Pacifica. In August of 2001, the Parks, Beaches, and Recreation (PB&R) Commission made a recommendation to the City Council to consider the creation of dog parks. The Council then approved Esplanade Beach as an off-leash area, and through March of 2003, meetings were held, and recommendations were made on this topic. In addition, an initial study/mitigated negative declaration (IS/MND) for an off-leash area at Sharp Park Beach was completed but never adopted. After several years (there are gaps in the record), the IS/MND was on the Council agenda, but ultimately was not adopted.

In 2008, a local group, the Pacifica Organization of Canine Helpers (POOCH), presented the concept of a dog park to the Council. The Sanchez Art Center site was eventually selected, and over the next several years, the Commission held many public meetings to discuss the location, design, rules, and operations of the park which opened in March of 2012.

Following its opening, the dog park continued to be the subject on many regular meeting agendas and was frequently the topic of study sessions over the next year. Specific issues and topics included park hours, noise/sound, dust, behavioral complaints, as well as the responses to issues at the park. POOCH committed to establishing a docent program in the first several months of operation, with members volunteering to be at the dog park to help educate folks regarding the use, rules, and appropriate behavior. Unfortunately, there were also several run-ins between park users and docents, creating an unpleasant experience for volunteers.

As a result of public input, as well as Commission and staff recommendations, changes at the park were implemented, including adjusting park hours, purchase, and use of a “binder” (dust mitigating agent), a noise study was conducted, the double gate entrance was expanded, and slats were installed in the fence. Staff from the Department of Public Works and the Police Department were involved in many of the meetings, discussions, and solutions for responses to maintenance and enforcement complaints.

In Spring of 2013, while still working on mitigating issues at the park, the Commission decided to create a sub-committee to consider alternative areas for off-leash activity. Staff began a series of communications with the San Francisco (SF) Recreation and Parks to discuss looking once again at the possibility of using Sharp Park Beach for an off-leash area.

SF Recreation and Parks was working on California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for a project in the/near the area site being suggested for off-leash use. They informed City staff in 2014 that they would not be in a position to discuss the proposed usage prior to finalization of the reports and/or the project. Over the next few years, efforts to correspond with SF were not reciprocated. Eventually they indicated they were not in favor of the idea, citing concerns for other users and the wildlife.

Recently, staff and Commissioners have received inquiries about the possibility of creating more off-leash areas for dogs in the City. Some of these inquiries contain general questions about other areas for off-leash activity while others are more specific, such as whether Pomo Park or Lower Frontierland could be established for such use. At the request of the Chair, staff have brought back this item to the Commission for discussion.

ATTACHEMENTS

Off-leash Areas and Dog Park Timeline

COMMISSION ACTION REQUESTED

Discussion item

Off-leash Areas and Dog Park Timeline

- In August of 2001, Commissioners made recommendations to the City Council to consider the construction of two dog parks, one each in the northern and southern areas of Pacifica. Council agreed with the recommendations and directed staff to return with possible sites. In addition, dog parks were the topic of discussion at a joint City Council/Animal Advisory Commissioner study session held July 30, 2001.
- On October 22, 2001, the Police Department and the PB&R department presented a staff report to City Council. Included in the report were off-leash area recommendations prepared by Pacifica's Animal Advisory Commission. The Council voted to give Esplanade Beach a trial as an off-leash beach. They also directed staff to come back with further information on the dog parks and find at least one appropriate park as soon as possible.
- On January 28, 2002, Council passed a change to the leash law allowing dogs off-leash on Esplanade. Staff (Police and PB&R) went back to Council in March of 2002 and recommended that Council wait for further recommendations from both the Animal Advisory and PB&R Commissions before deciding.
- In April 2002 after many meetings and much research, the Animal Advisory Commission prepared and presented to City Council their specific recommendations for dog parks in Pacifica.
- The PB&R Commission and the Animal Advisory Commission met at two joint study sessions on April 24 and May 8, 2002, to discuss recommendations and tour proposed dog park sites.
- In August of 2002, PB&R Commission staff reported that Lower Frontierland Park and the Fairmont Park path/corridor were suitable sites for a dog park. The Commissions recommend Council authorize staff to proceed with dog park development and cited conditions to be considered. The Commission also voted against construction of a park at lower Frontierland Park, citing children's safety and liability as concerns. At a study session later that month, commissioners heard from Fairmont Subdivision Improvement Association representatives and Fairmont homeowners, most of who were in opposition to a dog park at Fairmont Park. At the September 11, 2002, meeting, the PB&R Commission voted in favor of construction of a dog park at the Fairmont Park utility corridor for a six-month trial period.
- The Animal Advisory and PB&R Commissions then held a joint study session to discuss both Frontierland Park and Lower Fairmont and receive public input on the subject of dog parks.
- In March of 2003 an initial study/mitigated negative declaration (IS/MND) was completed for an off-leash area on Sharp Park Beach. It was never adopted.

There are gaps in the history and information relating to (if there were) any other Commission or Council meetings regarding the topic.

- On November 26, 2007, the IS/MND for an off-leash area at Sharp Park Beach was on the City Council agenda. According to the staff report and discussions at the meeting, after the completion of the document in March of 2003, the City manager at that time directed that no further action be taken on the document. The IS/MND was then not scheduled for consideration by the City Council and staff ceased working on the document.
 - A motion to direct staff to bring back the issue to Council for full consideration was not seconded and therefore the motion “died” for a lack of support.
 - Council members suggested that they could pursue the issue should the public chose to bring it up in the future.
- At the April 17, 2013 PB&R Commission meeting, Commissioners discussed studying alternative/additional off-leash dog locations and asked staff to schedule a study session in June to further explore this topic. Subsequently, a subcommittee was formed, holding two meetings prior to a June 12, 2013, study session.
- At the June 12, 2013 study session, the subcommittee discussed the history. Staff had researched available reports documenting the timeline, which is summarized in the Background section above.
- In August of 2013, staff began correspondence – email and phone communication - with SF Parks and Recreation staff, revisiting the possibility of having off-leash activity at Sharp Park Beach.
- SF Recreation and Parks informed City staff in September of 2014 that they would not be in a position to discuss the proposed usage prior to finalization CEQA and EIR for the project.
- Over the next few years, efforts to correspond with SF were not regularly reciprocated while they were working on reports for the project area; however, after the (at that time) PB&R chair visited their commission meeting in February of 2017, it seemed like there might be progress.
- Communication continued via email and phone; however, they eventually indicated they were not in favor of the idea, citing concerns for other users and the wildlife.
